- Liaison Officer for 1st Armoured Regiment – Mark Reid
- Association Delegate to the RAAC Corporation – Chris Fenton, and

The following members stepped up to the plate and volunteered (and were elected) for the positions indicated:

- Communications Manager and Website Manager – Bob Kennard, and
- Newsletter Editor – Graeme (Wol) Walker.

The following positions are currently vacant:

- Recruitment Manager
- State Representatives for the Northern Territory and the Australian Capital Territory (currently undertaken by the NSW State Rep)

The Management Committee, on behalf of all Association members, would like to express its sincere thanks to the new volunteers, as well as those members who stood for their previously held positions. Without these volunteers the Association would cease to exist.

Major Issues Addressed at the AGM

ARN 169005

John Brooker, on behalf of the ARN 169005 Board of Management, advised that there was a very high probability that our tank (ARN 169005) would not be relocated with the Museum when the new facility was built in the next two years. Subsequent discussion led to the establishment of a Subcommittee to investigate the options, and make recommendations, for the future disposition of the vehicle owned by the Association.

Members of the Subcommittee include Mel Meloncelli (Chair), Russ James (Admin Support), John Brooker and Peter Coutts (Operational and Historical aspects), John Blackwell and Dean Martin (Maintenance and Engineering considerations) and Tony Crook and Peter Swinfield (Museum inputs and Museum Technical issues).

Sporting Scholarship

The AGM was advised that the Management Committee had finalised the Selection and Appraisal criteria for Sporting Scholarship. Applications close on 30 June.

Membership Fees and Joining Fees

It was recommended, and accepted, that changes were not required to existing Membership Fees, or the imposition of an Association Joining Fee.

Membership – Current Situation

As at 10 June 2022, the Association has a total of 505 active (financial) members; an increase of around 128 since the AGM held on 14 July 2018 when the majority of the current Management Committee was elected.

Membership renewals – there were 212 members due for membership renewal on 1 February 2022. So far 182, or 85.8% have renewed with one (1) member resigning by email, one (1) who has suspended membership for 12 months and a further 28 who have failed to renew. Attempts to contact these members, by email and phone, have been unsuccessful. We have not yet given up and hope that the odd friendly phone call may have a positive result. These members remain as inactive members until 1 August at which time they will be re-categorised as 'Inactive – Resigned'. Your encouragement is sought to influence anyone you know who has doubts about renewing their membership.

As previously reported, the Association does not have a Recruitment Management Manager and we are largely dependent on existing members to encourage their friends to join.

New Members

The Association would like to welcome the following new members who have joined since early March 2022:

John HOWARD (6 March 2022), Trevor LUCAS (9 March 2022), Martin GAMPE (15 March 2022), Matt STERRENBURG (2 April 2022), Jeff Madex (27 April 2022), Karl LANGHANKI (3 May 2022), Doc BRAIN (19 May 2022) and Ben PETERSON (5 June 2022).

Donations

The Association gratefully acknowledges the following members who have made donations since the last Newsletter:

Max HYSON, Gerry GERMAINE, Gerry MCCORMACK, Doug BLACKNEY, Bill BALDWIN, Roger COSTELLO, Abram SANDY and Anony MOUSE!

In addition, the Association also gratefully acknowledges the following members who have made donations to the Port Macquarie 2022 Reunion:

Graeme UNMACK, Gary (Pluto) McNABB, Gerry McCormack, Graeme POTTS and Rob MILLSTEED

ANZAC Day Long Lunch – Melbourne

Victoria Rep Iain Reynolds arranged this year's Association ANZAC Day Long Lunch Friday 22nd April at the Emerald Hotel, South Melbourne. 20 members in attendance and all enjoyed a great meal and afternoon.

ANZAC Day across the Association

Association Secretary and Treasurer make an appearance at the Kelvin Club, Melbourne

ANZAC Day, Sydney 2022

A pretty poor turnout for the 1st Armoured Regiment with only 3 of us and a Bluebell marching behind our Banner and no Officer to lead us.

COVID played a part, but it would be good to see a renewed interest next year and a renewed pride in the Regiment's great achievements and most importantly the comradeship of those who have served together.

Please make the effort to come along next year.

The Clovelly Scout group that are associated with 1 AR member Dave Ferguson again did a great job in carrying our Banner, 2 on the poles and 4 on ropes, it's sad that they outnumbered the marchers.

The Black Hat gathering back at the Civic Hotel which is conveniently located near the end of the march at the corner of Goulburn and Pitt Streets was, however, a successful gathering and well attended. We had our own private area in the hotel and pub food was available.

MAJGEN Michael Krause AM and several other senior RAAC officers, including our popular Padre Rev Andrew Sempell, freely mingled in the gathering which also included families.

It would not be good if years of tradition were allowed to die on the vine, your future participation would be very much appreciated.

Yours in Armour,
Bob Ferrari OAM

Mt Gambier Leopard gets a facelift

HAVE PAINT BRUSH - WILL PAINT: Geoff Baker, former Crew Commander of the Leopard Tank on display at the Mount Gambier RSL Bowling Club, gave the tank a facelift with assistance from fellow 1st Armoured Regiment colleagues Roger Martlew, of Millicent, Richard James, of Naracoorte, and Mark Reid from Adelaide.

'The old girl' gets a facelift

kathy.gandolfi@tbwtoday.com.au

"SHE was a beauty," said retired Regimental Sergeant Major Geoff Baker last week when he and three colleagues of the 1st Armoured Regiment Association gave a facelift to the army tank which is on permanent display at Mount Gambier's Returned and Services League (RSL) Bowling Club on Jubilee Highway.

Now living at Seaford, Adelaide, Mr Baker was crew commander for that actual tank in the 1980's, something he discovered by accident during a return visit to Mount Gambier which was his home-town as a boy growing up.

"I was back in the Mount with my wife and we were walking down the street and she said, 'look, there is a tank like you had,'" said Mr Baker.

"I thought, wouldn't it be great if it was my old tank, and as it turned out - it was."

Despite the chances being slim as Australia had about 100 Leopard tanks during their service, Mr Baker checked the serial number, painted on the exterior of the machine, and immediately recognised that 29395 was indeed his tank.

"I practically slept with her for two years," Mr Baker said as he prepared to give the 46 year old tank a new coat of paint thanks to help from Mount Gambier's RSL, Bunnings who donated the paint and tools through Taubmans Paint, and Paxford Canvas who made, fitted and donated a new cover for the tank, while the local Woolworths made sure the men were fed during their working bees last week.

Mr Baker said the tank's name when it was in service was Coldstream but the repainting last week gave he and his colleagues the opportunity to rename it in line with the tradition of squadrons naming tanks with the letter of the squadron it belonged to - be it A, B or C.

As the tank was with C Squadron, and as the tank is now in Mount Gambier which was Mr Baker's home town, it was decided to rename the tank Crater City.

Mr Baker went to school at Mount Gambier's Reidy Park and North primary schools and then Tech School, now known as Grant High School.

As was common in those days, he finished school on the Friday and began work the following Monday as an apprentice mechanic with the highways department.

He left Mount Gambier when he was 17 years old and moved to Naracoorte where he was called up for national service in 1972 after which he joined the regular army with whom he served for 34 years.

Being a mechanic, it was natural fit for him to be allocated to the 1st Armoured Regiment based at Puckapunyal's army facility in central Victoria and later Mr Baker moved to Darwin with the brigade there.

He also had non-corps postings in Kapooka near Wagga Wagga and Tamworth in New South Wales, and in Sydney.

Mr Baker said while the tank was made in 1976, his association with it was in 1983 and 1984 when he was posted back to the 1st Armoured Regiment at Puckapunyal as a troop sergeant to C Squadron.

"I was issued 29395 so it was basically my tank for two years," Mr Baker said.

During that time, the tank and its crew, with Mr Baker as the crew commander, participated in training exercises, including a major one in 1983.

"My squadron loaded all our tanks and support vehicles on the HMAS Tobruk and sailed from Melbourne to Shoalwater Bay near Rockhampton in Queensland for an eight week exercise, including a dawn attack at Sabina Point."

The tank stayed with the regiment for its entire life, never firing a shot in anger.

Replaced by the American Abrams tanks, the Leopard tanks were retired from service in 2007 and donated by the Commonwealth Government to RSLs for display in towns around Australia.

Three of Mr Baker's 1st Armoured Regiment colleagues helped him repaint Mount Gambier's Leopard.

They included Roger Martlew, of Millicent, who was a 20 year old when he served as a gunner on a Centurion tank - the forerunner to the Leopard - in the Vietnam War and has vivid memories of his tank being blown up in his first two weeks of service, suffering bad burns but thankfully surviving and having to return to serve out the rest of his 15 month tour.

Richard James, of Naracoorte, was a tank driver on Centurions and was a driver during tank trials to determine whether Australia selected the American or German tank.

Mark Reid, of Adelaide, was a crewman on Centurion tanks in 1972 and later was a commander on the Leopard tank after its introduction.

Despite or perhaps because of their experiences, the men obviously maintain a strong bond, meeting regularly through their shared association, and with Mount Gambier's Leopard being a familiar reminder of that period in their lives, they gladly gave up their time to give it a fresh lick of paint.

"It's a brilliant idea to paint the old girl - give her a face-lift - and get together at the same time," they said.

Knock-off Note from the Editor

G'day All,

This is your newsletter. It stands to reason then, that a part of the content should come from you. I'm sure you all have a few photos from your time at the Regiment and, of course, a myriad of stories to go with them. So don't just leave them in your hard drive collecting virtual dust; send them in with (or without if you prefer) a story or caption to go with them and I'll add them to the following issue. So, get in touch via the email address at the bottom of the front page.

Cheers,
