Victorian Members Camping Trip

The annual Victorian members' camping trip is being organised for the Melbourne Cup weekend, Saturday 30th October till Tuesday 2nd November. Due to the fragile state with being plunged back into lockdown at a moment's notice, it will be a BYO Food & Drink.

We will have the BBQ up there for you to cook your food on. Camping Ground fees will still apply, plus a small fee for sundry items that I will provide for the weekend (tea, coffee, sugar, milk, ice etc) which will be collected on the way. There will be an XLarge esky up there for people to use, for keeping your drinks & food cold if you wish to use it, if you do use it, please clearly mark your items.

Dust off the tent, kick the spiders out of the sleeping bag & mark the camping trip on your calendar. More details will come out closer to Melbourne Cup weekend if we are out of lockdown by then.

Victorian Gathering to Celebrate the Regiments 72nd Birthday. Broadford RSL 10 July 2021

Saturday July 10 over 30 Victorian and visitors, serving and ex members of the 1st Armoured Regiment gathered at Broadford RSL the celebrate the 72nd Birthday of the Regiment. The traditional cutting of the cake was performed as per tradition with the oldest and youngest members. Catering supplied by local business Northern Star catering was as usual well presented and plenty of variety. The cake went over well. With luck next year, free of COVID we can do it again.

DID YOU OR A MATE ATTEND WESLEY COLLEGE IN MELBOURNE?

As a former member of 1st Armoured Regiment (NS intake 4/1967, RAAC from Mar 1968, Regiment May 1968 until discharge Oct 1969) I am hopeful you may be able to assist with flushing out some information from members of the Regiment.

Wesley College, Melbourne where I attended for some years, has extensive records and history of past students, who served in WW1 and WW2. Several books have been researched and written by Philip J Powell on the involvement of those students in WW1.

I am trying to compile a history of former Wesley students who have served/are serving in any capacity post WW2. To that end, I am hoping that a small article or notice might be included in a forthcoming issue of 1st Armoured Regiment Association newsletter.

In recent years substantial work has been undertaken improving the knowledge of the service of former students of Wesley College, Melbourne in the conflicts of WWI and WWII. Wesley now seeks to expand that work by seeking information on former students who had military service in the post-1945 era.

This would include those who participated in full or part time service or National Service. Any Collegians who have served or still serving, or family members of those who are deceased, are invited to contact Leigh Treyvaud (NS Intake 4/1967, 1st Armoured Regt 1968/69) at treyvaud-lc@bigpond.com.

Please contact me if any further information is required.

With thanks in anticipation.

Old Bills' ANZAC DAY

Rocket walked into the rest home to see his dear old mum
On a Thursday evening, just like he'd almost always done
At least one day a week in any case 'Mum I'll get there if I can'
To look at him you'd never pick him as a 'care for mother' kind of man.
He got the name of Rocket cos his family name was Sienz
He was covered in tattoos...his face had ornaments of iron
There were bits of metal everywhere...his brows his lips, his nose
He had a purple Mohawk hairdo, wore mostly denim clothes
As he walked along the corridor a door was open wide
An old man, sitting all alone was what caught Rocket's eye.
He paused there in the doorway, he said....'are you ok old man?'
The old man eyed young Rocket off in a way you'd understand
'What's going on with you young fella all covered in that stuff
You're a wild looking bugger and pretty flamin' rough.'
'Don't mind the way I look old mate....I'm here to see me mum
She's Roma....Roma Sienz....up there in one 0 one.'
'Well you can call me Bill', he said 'I'm a veteran of the war'
'I served in several places up 'til 1944
I'm bloody ninety five now, I'm running out of puff
I'm glad you said g'day mate, it doesn't happen much.'
'What about your family?' Rocket asked him with a frown
'They never come and see me mate, they're on the other side of town
But my grandson has made a promise that when ANZAC day is here
He'll pick me up and take me to a service somewhere near.'
'Do you reckon you would know mate, how important it could be?
To honour fallen mates who never got to live their life like me?
Side by side we fought.....in mud and blood and tears
We were all just kids then ...full of courage...full of fear'

Rocket sat there on the bed and listened to Bill talk
A tear was in the old bloke's eye as again he took that walk
That walk through war and tragedy that shaped his future life
And the heartbreak he endured when he lost his loving wife
Rocket shook Bill by the hand and told him he'd be back
Probably next Friday ...and they could have another yack
He went and saw his mum then, they had their usual chat
Their easy Thursday evenings went pretty much like that.
The Friday Rocket promised became impossible to do
He was working out of town with an unfamiliar crew
They got back in at 4 a.m., they'd been repairing power lines
They had to finish overnight and they'd got it done on time
Rocket took a shower, and he wondered if old Bill
Was sitting in his room and waiting, for his grandson stil
Today was ANZAC Day, and although he'd had no sleep
Rocket knew there was a promise that someone had to keep..
He jumped into his ute and drove straight to the home
And sure enough he found old Bill, sitting there alone
He was kitted up in suit and tie, he'd pinned his medals on.
His shoes were polished shiny, his hair was neatly combed .
'My grandson isn't here, he let me down, he doesn't care'
'He did the same thing last year, I have no way of getting there'
'Come and jump into my ute Bill.....and hang on bloody tight
When the service starts you will be there, saluting at first light.'
Bill took his place among the ranks... of the warriors of old
He stood straight and proud.... although the dawn was bleak and cold
He listened to the service, but his mind was far away
He closed his eyes.... and watched old comrades pass .in his very own parade.
And when he heard the bugle play a tear ran down his cheek

His thoughts were with departed mates, he didn't need to speak.
He stood in silence for some minutes, he let the memories flow through
Then he turned and walked away, there was no more left to do
Rocket put his arm around old Bill and walked back to the club.
'Im gunna shout you breakfast mate, then a couple in the pub.
Bill grabbed Rocket by the arm....he said....'Son make no mistake'
'Anywhere and anytime....I'd be proud to call you mate.'

The 'gun-car' variant of the Australian Army's Boxer combat reconnaissance vehicles (CRV) has been fired for the first time in Australia by soldiers who will man it in the field.

The accuracy and lethality of the Boxer impressed the soldiers from 2nd/14th Light Horse Regiment (Queensland Mounted Infantry) (2/14LHR(QMI)) on their turret conversion course.

After several weeks of theory, the soldiers travelled to the Wide Bay Training Area in late June for the live-fire component of the conversion course, where they fired the main 30mm armament of the Boxer.

Lieutenant Stefano Rankin was on the course to convert from the Australian Light Armoured Vehicle (ASLAV) to the Boxer CRV and said he was immediately impressed with the turret.

"To fire the turret, it's quite different to what we are used to. It's very digitised, as opposed to the ASLAV," Lieutenant Rankin said.

"It is a very capable piece of equipment.

"The fire-control system on the Boxer is much more advanced than the ASLAV – it's a more modern vehicle.

"I managed to hit targets in excess of 2500m."

The Boxer CRV will replace the ASLAV, the current reconnaissance platform, which has been in service with the Army since the 1990s.

Members of 2/14LHR(QMI) said the advanced sights on the Boxer CRV sped up target identification and engagement.

Lieutenant Rankin said the most impressive part of the Boxer was the accuracy of the weapon system.

"From the start – from zeroing straight through to engaging targets – you are almost guaranteed a first-round hit," he said.

"It's a significant advantage to the ASLAVs.

"The accuracy of the weapon system is phenomenal compared to the ASLAV, and you are just able to see targets more clearly through the advanced sighting system."

Trooper Brett Ward said firing the main 30mm armament after several weeks of theory with the new turret was exhilarating.

"It was extremely satisfying firing it after being in the classroom for weeks, so to get out here and live-fire it, to get rounds on targets, mostly first time, it's extremely impressive," he said.

"Just the incredible accuracy, even from the zeroing of the weapon, getting first-rounds hits with pinpoint accuracy, compared to the ASLAV, was really impressive."

The bulk of the live-fire event was conducted from a static position at the Wide Bay Training Area.

However, Lieutenant Rankin said he believed firing on the move won't be an issue with the Boxer.

"The stabilisation system on the Boxer is very advanced," he said.

"It has technology that calculates the movement of the vehicle to the target as well as the movement of the target to the vehicle.

"This enables us to get first-round hits almost all the time, even when on a battle run."

The Boxer CRV is due to achieve initial operational capability in the second quarter of next year.

The two contender vehicles for Australia's soon-to-be-selected infantry fighting vehicle (IFV) (LAND 400 Phase 3 project) recently conducted a firepower demonstration at Puckapunyal Military Area, showcasing next-level protection, firepower and mobility.

Rheinmetall Defence Australia's KF-41 Lynx and Hanwha Defence Australia's Redback have been facing off in extensive user-evaluation field trials.

Both companies have delivered three prototype vehicles, which are being tested over the course of this year as part of a two-year risk mitigation activity. A decision on the preferred tenderer will be presented to government for consideration in 2022.

Land 400 Trials Platoon Commander Major Joel Sloane said the vehicles were being tested and evaluated in all weather and in varying terrain to ensure they were fit-for-purpose.

"Our trials have involved literally blowing the vehicles up in order to test how they can withstand a range of firepower and threats," Major Sloane said.

"We have been testing the Redback and Lynx through a range of tactical scenarios in the field that will be realistic to how they will be employed in the future."

At the firepower demonstration, both vehicles fired their 30mm main weapon cannon, and co-axial and remote weapon station 7.62mm MAG 58 machine guns, engaging targets at ranges from 300m to more than 2000m.

Capability Acquisition and Sustainment Group Head Armoured Vehicle Division Major General David Coghlan said with its next generation protection suite, 30mm cannon, anti-tank guided missiles, and the ability to engage helicopters and drones, either vehicle offered capabilities never before seen in Army.

"These vehicles will provide increased firepower, mobility and, most importantly, protection for our infantry soldiers," he said.

Each vehicle has a crew of three and can carry six fully armed infantry soldiers into battle. The vehicles are designed to fight alongside the nation's current and future tank fleet, with commensurate mobility.

"The best thing about the infantry fighting vehicle is it will allow the infantry corps to contribute more to joint land combat.

"The capabilities and systems on this new vehicle allows the infantry to fight with the vehicle, not just from the vehicle. It allows us to move further in the battle space, under armour, with full situational awareness."

Both companies, should they be successful, have committed to building the majority of vehicles in Australia, with substantial investment in Australian industry capability, supporting Australian jobs, talent and technology.

Valued at between $18.1 billion and $27.1 billion, the Land 400 Phase 3 project is the largest acquisition project in Army's history.
